$15,000,000 IN CARRYING KIDS

Give Children Chance to Attend Their Classes Regularly

HALF MILLION DAILY

Almost Every Known Means of Transportation Used for This Purpose

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(Herald.)—The good old days in the West are far distant past when Tom and Mary, living in the country and having to traverse a great distance from home to the little red school-house upon the hill, would start a ride on Farmer Jones' wagon, bound for the city to sell fresh eggs and farm products to "them city folks."

Yes, "them was the days", but like hopalaloozie, horse-drawn cars and many other things of the past few generations, "they ain't no more." Children throughout the land who live in the country do not have to resort to Tom and Mary's strategy of yesterday in order to get to school on time nowadays. Tom and Mary of today do not expect to see the thrill and sensation that the Tom and Mary of yesterday felt when they "hitched" on behind the wagon of Farmer Jones and clung with clinging tenacity to keep from being flung off the swaying, creaking wagon as old Dobbin cantered leisurely along, urged forward now and then—monthly then—by the crack of the driver's whip as he pulled lazily on his cherished and trusty cornish pipe.

Ride Free Today, Too.

Yes, times have changed considerably. Today's Tom and Mary go to school like young aristocrats, in the most modern of present-day conveyances. It has been estimated by the bureau of education that half a million children are given free transportation to school each day. Almost every known means of conveyance is used in taking children to school at no cost to them, ranging from the ancient but ever-popular rickshaw, in some instances, to the "horsemobile carriage" and the huge, spacious motor buses that adorn the streets of the city in competition with public street car lines.

Over $15,000,000 was expended in the last school year to transport the pupils of the country, but against this cost, states the department of education, must be considered the very important advantages provided—an opportunity for every child to attend school regularly no matter how far he lives from the school-house, and the health and morals of our pupils are protected.

FIGHT CRIME WITH GOOD

Unemployed Are Treated to Meals and Then Told to Move on.

MURPHYSBORO, Ill., Feb. 3.—Unemployed transients are given two free meals by the city and then told to "move on."

Residents of Murphysboro have been asked to send anyone begging for food at their doors to the city hall where the meals are served. Mayor Davis and the city council decided upon the plan. Money to provide the meals comes from municipal funds.

Police authorities declared that the plan was put into effect to prevent numbers of unemployed men from spending the winter here and begging food from the people. Each applicant is required to register for the meals.

The plan also aims to prevent crime, the police saying that a person with food is not likely to turn to crime to obtain nourishment. Homeless men sleep in the city jail at night.

Rubber ear protectors for swimmers and persons who have their hair shampooed have been invented by a Minnesota woman.

The Italian government will establish government stations for the scientific improvement of several lines of industry.

DANCE FAD TAKES TOKIO

Japanese Find American Steps Graceful and Enticing.

TOKIO, Feb. 3.—All classes of society have taken up modern dancing enthusiastically in spite of protests from conservative quarters. A knowledge of the latest steps has become an additional finish to the Japanese girl's modern education and her national costume lends a new grace to the American fox-trot, according to observations made here.

There are regular dances, well attended, in the foreign hotels of the big cities like Tokio, Yokohama, and Kobe.

There are private societies, private dancing parties in the more up-to-date Japanese homes. Formerly balls were given officially in honor of the imperial birthday, in which imperial princesses participated; but it is especially since the war that the dancing craze has overcome Tokio. As a sign of the democratic tendencies prevailing in Japan an imperial princess, for the first time last year attended a public fancy dress ball organized for the benefit of a lepers' hospital.

With the reopening this morning of the popularly located EMPRESS GROCERY & MARKET, under a complete change of management, former and future patrons will find many improvements and much that will excite admiration.

The general policy of the new management will be to conduct a strictly high grade business on a cash basis, and to bring to a CENTRAL LOCATION the same advantages in LOW PRICES on QUALITY PRODUCTS as prevail on the more inaccessible streets. An added advantage over other popular price stores will be a free delivery system to all customers. The only requirements is that purchases to be delivered total $3 or more.

In remodeling, everything possible to make for sanitation and cleanliness has been accomplished. To facilitate prompt service the store has been divided into three main departments, each under the management of an experienced, capable head; in the main, men who are well known to Tulsa shoppers.

The grocery and delicatessen department will be under the expert supervision of Harry Wilbanks, who formerly had charge of the grocery department at King's Market for the last seven or eight years. "Harry" needs no further introduction as he has a wider acquaintance, perhaps, than any other merchant in Tulsa.

The meat department will be under the supervision of Mr. J. E. Jones, who is also well known and who is an experienced meat man.

An elaborate fresh fruit and vegetable department, carrying at all times everything the markets afford, will be in charge of Mr. Taylor, who has had several years' experience of this kind in all its branches.

In conclusion we wish to promise the people of Tulsa that we will endeavor to handle nothing but the best known brands of food products, that we will feature service that is A SERVICE, and that our prices will always be right.
